RESOLUTION

Presented by William Butterworth, at That Time President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Adopted at Twenty-fifth Anniversary Meeting,
White House, Washington, April 13, 1931

Whereas it is estimated that the annual crime bill of the United States is $10,000,000,000 or more, and

Whereas it is reported by responsible medical authorities that diseases of the heart and nervous system are rapidly increasing under the strain of modern life, and

Whereas there are 338,000 insane individuals in the public institutions of the United States with an annual maintenance cost to the taxpayer of $169,000,000, with the number rapidly increasing each year, and

Whereas there are 10,000 children under 15 years of age killed each eighteen-month period by automobiles, and

Whereas there are 200,000 children arrested annually in the United States for juvenile delinquency, and

Whereas the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection reports that there are 45,000,000 children under 18 years of age in the United States and that these children spend a startlingly large per cent of their time outside the school and home, and

Whereas mental and physical health, safety, good citizenship and normal living are well nigh impossible without wholesome and adequate recreation,

Therefore be it resolved: That the National Recreation Association at this twenty-fifth anniversary meeting reaffirm its former vote that a foundation or limited period endowment of not less than $10,000,000 is needed for the national recreation movement; that

For all that is involved in preparing nationally for the recreational use of the larger leisure which is coming so rapidly in industry.

For the training of volunteer and professional recreation workers through the graduate school and its extension service.

For research in the leisure time and recreation field.

For assistance to educational authorities.

For study and service in the training of school leaders in recreation.

For assistance in training rural leaders in recreation.

For work on the land and water problems involved in providing for the future needs of the population of the United States along recreation lines.

For all these services there is need either for an endowment of $10,000,000 or the provision of a stabilization fund which would guarantee an assured income of not less than $500,000 a year for the next 20 years.

That no organized drive be undertaken to secure this fund, but that effort be made to bring this need to the attention of the men and women in America who at the present time are considering bequests and the establishment of foundations and endowments and trust funds for essential national services to humanity not yet adequately financed.

The Community Recreation Year Book

The Year Book of the National Recreation Association is a report of the public recreation facilities, leadership, expenditures, and programs of American municipalities. It is primarily a statement of community recreation activities conducted under leadership and of facilities used chiefly for active recreation. In order to be included in the Year Book, a city must report one or more playgrounds or indoor recreation centers conducted under leadership or a major recreation facility such as a golf course, swimming pool or bathing beach, the operation of which requires regular supervision or leadership.

The Year Book contains reports of such recreation facilities and activities provided by many municipal and county park authorities. It does not include, however, all types of park service. Recreation programs provided by industrial concerns and other private agencies for the benefit of the entire community and which are not restricted to special groups are also reported. Similarly, reports of many playgrounds, recreation centers and other recreation service provided by school authorities are published, but information concerning school physical education programs is not included in the Year Book.

Because of the limited types of recreation included in the Year Book, the expenditures reported are much less than the amounts reported annually by the United States Department of Commerce as spent by cities for recreation. In the government reports all types of municipal recreation are included; playgrounds, parks and trees, open spaces, museums, art galleries, swimming and bathing places, athletics, music, entertainments, and celebrations. The latest report, which covered the 1928 expenditures of 250 cities having a population of 30,000 or over, indicated that these cities paid $73,018,422 for outlays for recreation and $62,871,118 for operation and maintenance, making a total expenditure for recreation in 1928 of $135,889,540. In contrast with this figure, the N. R. A. Year Book for 1928 reported a total expenditure of only $31,740,851.61 in 817 communities for the types of recreation included in the Year Book.

The Service of the National Recreation Association in 1930

324 cities in 44 states were given personal service, upon request, through periodic visits of field workers.

81 cities were personally visited and helped through the Park Information Service.

Helped to find qualified workers for 504 recreation positions.

5,913 different communities submitted 23,959 requests for literature or information on drama, music, and general recreation problems to the Correspondence and Consultation Service and the Community Drama Service.

148 institutions for children and the aged in 26 cities were given personal help by the Field Secretary on Play in Institutions.

Published the monthly magazine, RECREATION, the tool kit of the recreation worker, and the bi-weekly bulletin service.

The National Physical Education Service in addition to its correspondence and consultation service helped 26 states through field visits.

221 cities in 34 states were represented by 701 delegates at the National Recreation Congress.

40,693 boys and girls in 491 cities received badges or certificates for passing the Association's progressively graded physical fitness tests.

36 college graduates completed the fourth year's graduate course in community recreation at the National Recreation School.

7,263 rural leaders were given training at 125 recreation institutes held in 39 states.

Conducted two short courses for advanced training of recreation workers.

65 cities received assistance from the Field Secretary on Recreation and Athletics for Women and Girls.

Administered national contest for boys and girls in building and flying model aircraft.

Conducted numerous research projects and published and distributed handbooks, pamphlets and other material.

Community Recreation Leadership and Facilities in 980 Cities

The Year Book for 1930 records a steady growth in the public provision for recreation in American communities. The 980 towns and cities from which reports were received represent the largest number of communities ever included in a Recreation Year Book. In many respects the information received from these communities indicates that 1930 was a year of unusual progress in community recreation.

The number of employed recreation leaders shows a marked increase and a total of 24,949 or 2,029 more than the previous year is reported. For the first time the number of men leaders almost equals the number of women employed for recreation service. The continued use of volunteers is reported by a growing number of cities and the provision of special training for both paid and volunteer leaders is encouraging.

Although a year of business depression, the expenditures for recreation were $38,518,194.88, exceeding by approximately $5,000,000 the largest previous amount reported spent for recreation within a single year. Of this total nearly one-third was spent for land, buildings and improvements. The increase in capital expenditures reflects the tendency reported by many cities in 1930 to relieve unemployment among their citizens through the expansion and development of recreation areas and facilities. The bond issues for recreation totalling $6,573,420.99 passed in 41 cities are another indication of this municipal policy. It is gratifying to note on the other hand that these improvements are not accompanied by a reduction in the amount provided for recreation leadership which shows an increase of more than $1,000,000 over the previous year.

Although the reports show a greater number of other types of facilities, especially baseball diamonds, bathing beaches, summer camps and tennis courts, the number of playgrounds shows no increase over 1929. In fact the number of playgrounds for colored people reported in 1930 is 36 less than the previous year. Several more indoor recreation centers for colored people are reported than in 1929 although the total number of indoor centers for both white and colored is slightly less than the previous year.

The reports of attendance at playgrounds and indoor recreation centers give fuller information as to the extent of their use than has been available heretofore. Although many communities do not record attendance, the cities reporting indicate a total average daily playground attendance during the summer of 2,822,940 participants. In addition, one-half of these cities report an average of 899,418 spectators daily during the summer months. Therefore approximately three and three-quarter million people were served daily by the playgrounds in these cities alone. A total attendance of both spectators and participants at playgrounds for the year 1930 is reported by 573 cities to be 206,816,987. Since the spectators are not included in many of these reports and since the attendance at more than 1,000 playgrounds is not recorded, the total number of playground visitors during the year is far in excess of this figure. Likewise the number of participants at the indoor centers and recreation buildings reached the remarkable total of 34,114,757 persons in the cities submitting attendance data.

The tables on recreation administration indicate that the number of cities in which recreation service is provided by park authorities is approximately the same as in the case of recreation boards and departments. In many of the former, however, the service is limited to golf courses, swimming pools or other supervised facilities, whereas playgrounds and other centers under leadership are conducted by practically all recreation boards. The importance of the recreation board or department in providing year round recreation programs is indicated by the fact that in more than half the cities reporting one or more full time year round recreation leaders, the work is under this type of administration.

There is reason for encouragement in the fact that although a large number of cities submitting reports in 1929 failed to supply information this year and several reports were received too late to be included,* the total number of cities is increased and progress is noted in most of the types of service reported. No one studying the information submitted can fail to appreciate the value and scope of the service rendered by the recreation movement during the trying period covered by this report.

Leadership

Employed Workers

Of the 980 cities represented in the 1930 Year Book, 828 cities report 24,949 workers employed to give leadership for community recreation activities. Of this total 12,151 were men and 12,798 were women. Of this number 2,660 men and women were employed full time throughout the year for recreation service.

The marked increase in employed recreation leadership during the last ten years is indicated by the following comparison of the 1930 figures with those for 1920 and 1925. It is interesting to note that the percentage of men workers has grown steadily until their number almost equals that of the women employed as recreation leaders.

	1920	1925	1930
Cities reporting employed recreation workers.....	465	748	828
Men workers employed	4,149	7,178	12,151
Women workers employed	6,069	9,999	12,798
Total workers	10,218	17,177	24,949
Cities reporting workers employed full time the year round	282
Men workers employed full time the year round (243 cities)	1,368
Women workers employed full time the year round (192 cities)	1,292
Total full time year round workers (282 cities).....	2,660

Volunteers

In 206 cities the help of 8,216 volunteers was enlisted in carrying out the community recreation program in 1930. Of this number 3,204 were reported to be men and 4,325 women. The number of leaders serving without pay shows an increase over the number reported five years ago, which was 6,799.

Training Classes for Workers

The increasing emphasis that is being placed upon the training of employed recreation workers is evident from the following table which also indicates the extent to which volunteer leaders are being given preparation for recreation service. (The figures in parenthesis indicate the number of cities reporting.)

	1920	1925	1930
Training classes for employed workers (81) (115)	429 (170)
Total number of workers enrolled	1,472 (38)	4,342 (100)	11,534 (167)
Average total hours of instruction	40.1 (53)
Training classes for volunteer workers (84)	160 (78)
Total number of volunteer workers enrolled	304 (9)	3,140 (72)	6,495 (78)
Average total hours of instruction	45 (74)

Play Areas and Centers

A total of 13,354 separate play areas and centers under leadership is reported. Of this number, 791 are reported open in 1930 for the first time. There is a decided increase in the number of play areas and special recreation facilities reported for 1930 as compared with 1925 when only 8,682 separate areas were reported. Separate figures are reported for playgrounds, recreation buildings and indoor recreation centers for white people and for colored people. There is no such distinction in recording athletic fields, bathing beaches, golf courses, summer camps or play streets which are included in these figures.

A summary of the information submitted concerning the areas and centers follows:

Outdoor Playgrounds

Total number of outdoor playgrounds (766 cities).....	7,316
Open year round (162 cities)	1,315
Open during the summer months only (672 cities)	4,828
Open during school year only (60 cities).....	475

Average daily summer attendance of participants (529 cities)	2,730,701
Average daily summer attendance of spectators (261 cities)	890,787
Total number of outdoor playgrounds open in 1930 for the first time (203 cities)...	441

In addition to the above, outdoor playgrounds for colored people are reported as follows:

Total number of playgrounds for colored people (125 cities)	361
Open year round (33 cities)	84
Open summer months only (95 cities)	212
Open school year only (15 cities)	33
Open other seasons only (14 cities)	32

Total yearly or seasonal attendance of participants (1,083 centers in 138 cities)	13,388,316
Total number of indoor recreation centers open in 1930 for the first time (62 cities)	142

Additional indoor recreation centers for colored people are reported as follows:

Total number of indoor recreation centers for colored people (48 cities)	103
Open year round (22 cities)	26
Open school year (23 cities)	67
Open other seasons (7 cities)	10
Total yearly or seasonal attendance of participants (66 centers in 32 cities)	629,831
Total number of indoor recreation centers for colored people open in 1930 for the first time (13 cities)	18
Total number of indoor recreation centers for white and colored people (255 cities)	2,066
Total 1930 attendance of participants at indoor recreation centers for white and colored people (1,149 centers in 146 cities)	14,018,147

Recreational Facilities

The extent to which cities are providing a variety of recreation facilities for public use is illustrated by the following table and the tremendous extent to which these facilities are used is indicated by the attendance figures submitted by many cities. The reported participants at bathing beaches is nearly double that of the year 1929 and the golf courses show an increase in the number of participants of nearly 50%. For the first time information concerning winter sports facilities and miniature golf courses is submitted. As in previous years, the reports indicate that the average income received from the golf courses and outdoor swimming pools exceeds the average operating cost. A generous profit is also reported from the miniature golf courses. On the other hand, the cost of operating the indoor swimming pools is far in excess of the income received from them. Throughout the following table the figures in parenthesis indicate the number of cities reporting in each particular case and the figures in brackets indicate the number of facilities for which information is reported.

Recreation Buildings

Recreation buildings are reported as follows:

Total number of recreation buildings (186 cities).....	590
Open year round (149 cities)	454
Open school year (18 cities)	29
Open other seasons (48 cities)	107
Total yearly or seasonal attendance of participants (254 buildings in 96 cities).....	17,697,794
Total number of recreation buildings open in 1930 for the first time (30 cities)	46

In addition, recreation buildings for colored people are reported as follows:

Total number of recreation buildings for colored people (35 cities)	52
Open year round (27 cities)	44
Open school year (5 cities)	5
Open other seasons (3 cities)	3
Total yearly or seasonal attendance of participants (13 cities)	398,816
Total number of recreation buildings for colored people open in 1930 for the first time (6 cities)	6
Total number of recreation buildings for white and colored people (201 cities)	642
Total yearly or seasonal participants at recreation buildings for white and colored people (271 buildings in 100 cities)	18,096,610

Play Streets

Thirty-seven cities report a total of 223 streets closed for play under leadership. Only eight of these streets were open in 1930 for the first time. In view of this fact and also since the number of cities conducting street playgrounds is less than it was in 1925, it is apparent that the use of streets for play under leadership is not growing in proportion to the play movement as a whole.

Management

The following tables indicate the number of cities in which the various public and private agencies listed conducted recreation facilities or programs in 1930. Comparable figures are also given for the years 1920 and 1925. Since in many cities two or more agencies submitted separate reports, each of these cities has been recorded two or more times in the tables.

Municipal

The forms of municipal administration in the cities reporting are summarized as follows:

Agencies Reporting Full Time Year Round Workers

The following is a summary of the types of municipal and private agencies reporting one or more recreation workers employed on a full time year round basis in 1930. Comparable figures are not available for 1920 and 1925. Several of the private agencies reporting such workers control few facilities and serve primarily to supplement the work of one or more municipal agencies in the same cities. In a number of cities two or more agencies report year round workers giving full time to recreation. It is significant that in more than one-half of the cities in which recreation is administered by a recreation board, commission or independent department, at least one worker is employed for full time recreation service throughout the year. On the other hand only a small percentage of the park, school and other authorities conducting recreation report full time year round recreation leaders.

Expenditures

The total expenditure for public recreation reported in 928 cities is $38,518,194.88. This is $5,000,-000.00 more than the largest amount previously reported spent for public recreation within a single year and represents an increase of more than 100% during a five year period. Although most of the increase over the previous year is in expenditures for land, buildings and permanent equipment, it is significant that the amount spent in salaries of recreation workers exceeds by more than $1,000,000.00 the amount reported spent for leadership the previous year. A comparison of the reported expenditures for 1925 and 1930 follows: (The figures in italics indicate the number of cities reporting in each case.)

Expended for	1925	1930

Sources of Support

The sources of support for community recreation activities and facilities in 953 cities are summarized in the following table. In 222 of these cities receipts from the operation of recreation facilities or from other fees are also used in financing the recreation service. A marked increase in municipal and county as contrasted with private support is noted during the ten year period since 1920.

Source of Support	No. of Cities
	1920	1925	1930
Municipal Funds	249	362	592
Municipal and Private Funds	110	178	189
Private Funds	103	191	120
County Funds	4	49
Miscellaneous Public Funds	2	1	1
Miscellaneous Public and Private Funds	1	12	2

As in the two previous years a large percentage of the funds expended came from public sources. More than 85% of the money spent, the source of which was reported, was derived from taxation by municipal, county or other public bodies. Of the balance less than 11% came from fees and charges and slightly more than 4% was secured from private sources. Expenditures from bond funds totalling $4,870,733.93 are reported in 49 cities. The amounts reported spent from various sources are:

	Amount	No. of Cities
Municipal and County Funds	$30,810,172.51	766
Fees and Charges	3,836,686.78	222
Private Funds	1,539,226.54	268

League Activities

The importance of organized league activities is indicated by the following table. The increased participation in organized sports is illustrated by the fact that the number of teams reported is practically double that in 1925 and the number of players is nearly three times as large as was reported five years ago. Playground baseball, soccer, tennis and bowling show the most marked growth in popularity. The figures in parenthesis indicate the number of cities reporting.

Special Recreation Activities

Although many cities do not report on their activities, the following table shows the relative frequency with which various special activities are included in the recreation program. A comparison with similar reports for 1920 and 1925 indicates a smaller number of cities now reporting community singing, domestic science and gardening than in those earlier years and motion pictures are reported by fewer cities than in 1925. On the other hand such activities as model aircraft, circus, nature study, safety activities and paddle tennis, now reported by many cities, received little or no mention in these earlier reports. Several special music and drama activities are included at the end of the table.

Music and Drama

In order to secure additional information concerning the use of music and drama in community recreation programs, several questions were asked concerning these activities. It is believed that a number of the reports received contained data relating to school music and drama curricular activities and included activities of community groups other than those reporting. The following statement indicates, however, that music and drama are receiving increasing recognition as important factors in the community recreation program. The figures in parenthesis indicate the number of cities reporting in each case.

Dedicated to the Public

The Francis William Park, East Walpole, Massachusetts

THIS beautiful memorial park, covering seventy acres, was given to the people of Walpole by Charles S. Bird in memory of his son and has been endowed by him. It is an outstanding example of what many public-spirited individuals are doing to make life richer for their fellow citizens. According to reports received for the Year Book, fifty-two cities in 1930 received fifty-eight gifts of land to be devoted to recreational uses. These areas in fifty-one cities average $22\frac{3}{10}$ acres each. The estimated value of forty-eight of these donated play spaces totals \$1,551,018.20.

Dr. L. P. Jacks Comes to America Again

The National Recreation Association is happy to announce Dr. Jacks' visit to America in the interest of the leisure time movement

DR. L. P. JACKS, of Oxford, England, whose address at the 1930 Recreation Congress will be recalled by many readers of RECREATION, will arrive in this country in September to lecture until June on "leisure" under the auspices of the National Recreation Association. His tour for the most part will be restricted to limited audiences of community leaders in selected cities.

Dr. Jacks is leader of the adult education movement in England, an author of international reputation, and a widely known speaker. He is professor of philosophy and principal of Manchester College in Oxford. He has been editor of Hibbert Journal since its founding in 1902. Leading universities of England, United States, and Canada have given him honorary degrees.

As an author, Dr. Jacks has been widely read for a generation and is at the height of his popularity today. The most recent of a score or more of publications are: The Heroes of Smokeover, Constructive Citizenship, My Neighbor the Universe, and The Education of the Whole Man.

Upon learning of the public recreation movement in the United States at first hand at the 1930 Recreation Congress at Atlantic City, Dr. Jacks said, "Bless my soul, here is an organization carrying out the gospel I am preaching! There is no greater problem than that of leisure, which is a world problem. I am planning to devote the rest of my life to it. There is no better place to start than in America. If we can get the thoughtful leaders in America giving their attention to this problem, the influence will be worldwide."

The National Recreation Association is sponsoring Dr. Jacks' appearance in the United States in the belief that the contribution he has to make in interpreting to community leaders the significance of the leisure time movement will greatly advance the movement in America.

Leisure Challenges Our Age Says Dr. Jacks

"A man is no longer master of his own time as his forefathers were. On every side artful operators have studied his weak points and capitalized his leisure." . . . "Leisure is precisely that part of human life the needs of which are most conspicuously overlooked in our public systems of education as carried on in schools and colleges, and nowhere more so, I think, than in America." . . . "Leisure is the time supposed to be devoted to resting, amusing ourselves, play of one kind or another. There are two kinds of play; one playing the fool and the other playing the man. One is the meanest and the other the noblest game in the world. The object of leisure is to give the largest opportunity for the second kind of play." . . . "The skill of the people is the greatest of humanity's undeveloped assets. All great arts have originated in the well-doing of ordinary things. . . . Put into the doing of anything all the excellence that it needs and you are in a fair way of doing an artistic thing."

Arrangements for the local appearances of Dr. Jacks are now being made. Further information may be obtained from the National Recreation Association, 315 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

An "Ole Swimmin' Hole"

THE "old swimmin' hole" made famous by James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, in his poem of that title, has become a modern swimming pool.

Five years ago the Park Board of Greenfield, Indiana, was created. The general responsibility of this board was to be the development of the Riley Memorial Park in which the famous poet's "old swimmin' hole" was located. A careful study was made of swimming pools and their construction, and every effort was made to secure the best results possible from the expenditure of the $25,000 appropriated for the pool.

On July 4, 1930, the swimming pool was dedicated. Entering the front door a visitor finds himself in a spacious, well lighted entrance room where the fees are paid and from which the men bathers pass to the right and the women to the left to the dressing rooms which have been provided. Because of the necessity of keeping the cost down, a clothes checking system has been installed in place of the usual modern locker system. The men's dressing room, well lighted and ventilated, is equipped with benches, showers and a counter for checking clothes. At the rear of this room is a complete sanitary system. The men pass to the concourse floor through a foot bath. The women's dressing room at the left is the same size as that of the men, 14 feet by 100 feet. Here are curtains, dressing rooms and showers, and a counter for checking clothes. To the rear is another adequate sanitary system and the same arrangement as on the men's side for passing through a foot bath. There is a continuous floor drain here, as on the men's side, permitting of the flushing off of the locker room floors as well as all other floors in the bath room area.

To the rear of the men's room is a public toilet for men and back of the women's dressing room, a rest room for the use of the women public. At the extreme rear of the pool is a space for the installation of the sterilization, purification and recirculation equipment and electrical control. This filter plant is an 18,000 gallon per hour plant which will turn the water over in the pool in less than 15 hours.

On the concourse floor is a wading pool for little children about 12 feet by 25 feet, ranging in depth from 6 inches to 12 inches and completely screened. The pool proper, which is ovoid, is 80 feet by 120 feet and has a depth of from 3 to

A-A folks, and how's the boss feeling this month. Fine eh! That's good. Then you should be in good spirits—I didn't say "full of."

I heard a good one the other day. A fellow got sick, that he'd save some money. Called up the Drug Store clerk, who came out to the house, analyzed the case, and wrote a prescription. But he missed it. His business was filling prescriptions, not writing them. And then the sick guy called in a real doctor, and paid his bill twice. Funny? Heck No. The chances are you'll do it on that swimming pool you're going to build. Will you get someone who "says he knows" or someone who really knows, as evidenced by his training and experience?

Six years in University and five years in Municipal Work, City Engineer in a town of 60,000, and design, supervision and construction of over $2,000,000 worth of structures is the technical training I offer.

Ten years doing nothing but pool work, with 40 pools, BINTZ POOLS and sunken pools, for municipalities, private estates, amusement parks, Recreation Commissions, tourist camps, country clubs, memorials, Park Boards, civic clubs, Chautauquas, Chambers of Commerce, Commercial enterprises, etc., is the Experience to match it.

The James Whitcomb Riley Memorial Bintz Swimming Pool on the Brandywine at Greenfield, Indiana, is a most beautiful job and a fitting memorial to a national figure, made famous by his poem, "The Old Swimmin' Hole." A nice picture, enlargement or big cut, with complete data is yours for the asking. But while I'm at it, I'll give you a little information right here.

9 feet. The ends are squared off with a width of 36 feet sufficient for 7 swimming lanes of 5 feet each with a depth of 40 yards. The concourse floor is divided for the use of both bathers and spectators.

Outside of wooden doors and frames, not a stick of wood has been used in the entire pool or bath house construction. The pool wall, which is of concrete, forms one side of the bathroom and the concourse floor around the pool forms the ceiling of this bathroom. The total construction and equipment cost, including the cost of approximately $1,000 for a 2-line, octagonal, reinforced railing, was $26,091.31. The pool was designed by Wesley Bintz, of Lansing, Michigan, and is a patented construction.

From the dedication of the pool on July 4th to the evening of August 3rd, there was an attendance of 10,465 people, and almost $3,000 had been collected in fees. The charges are 10 cents for children and 25 cents for adults. Free mornings for children under 16 are provided.

Educational Survey Reports To Be Available.—School Life, the official organ of the Office of Education, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C., will report each month the educational activities of the United States government wherever they may be found. Three great national surveys conducted by the Office of Education—the Land Grant College Survey, the Secondary School Survey and the National Survey of the Education of Teachers—will also be reported from month to month. The Office of Education is using this publication, which may be secured for 50 cents a year, as the quickest way of getting the findings and preliminary reports of its research and statistical studies into the hands of teachers, administrators and others interested.

Has Your Community Such a Man?—Within two years West Hartford, Connecticut, has accomplished more in recreation than was carried through in the preceding ten years. Why?—Because a volunteer who was not so busy because of business conditions practically gave his full time to the development of a recreation program.

John Nolan, speaking at a planning session of the National Recreation Congress, stated that we needed to get more stock brokers interested in planning recreation areas. It is in part because West Hartford had a business man such as L. I. Corliss that such rapid progress has been made.

Has This Happened to You?—It was a busy August morning for a certain city director of recreation with the usual grist of reports, requests and complaints—eligibility tangles, a difference of opinion between two staff members, the assignment of a special worker to a fraternal picnic, how much could be spent for music in the final pageant—but there was to be one event this particular morning to make it stand out from all the routine August days.

The buzzer buzzed to show that the director was again wanted on the telephone. A deliberate, cultivated, slightly quavering voice came to him.

"You don't know me and perhaps I shouldn't bother you. I am an old woman, past seventy. I live right opposite the Seventh Street playground and on the side where the little children play. I am not able to leave the house much and I have to spend most of my time on the porch. I want you to know what a joy it's been this summer to

And the days seemed less trying, less routine-like for the balance of the summer.

One County's Recreational Service.—The growth since 1922 of the Department of Recreation, Camps and Playgrounds of the Los Angeles County, California, Park Commission has been unusual. At the time of the opening of the Big Pines Recreational Camp in 1922 there were eight employees. Since that date the average annual increase of workers has been 53 per cent and at the present time there are 119 persons employed. During the same eight year period the annual expenditures have increased accordingly, the gain being 1,897 per cent. In 1930-31 the general recreation budget of the County as reported to the State Comptroller was $1,510,059 divided as follows:

Museum of Natural History, Science and Art	$363,413
Hancock Park	24,726
Stadium	227,000
Recreation Camps and Playgrounds..	660,684
Park Department	234,236

$1,510,059

Adult Recreation.—The average age of the players in the adult harmonica club organized by the Metropolitan Playground and Recreation Department of Tacoma, Washington, is 58. Tacoma also has volley ball leagues for men whose average age is 40. In Portland, Oregon, a woman's club has been created whose members, all over 60 years of age, meet once a week to play cards, sew, sing and chat. Once a month this group serves a luncheon, each member preparing part of the meal.

Community Programs in Louisville.—Friday night was community night on each of the Louisville playgrounds last summer, and children and parents took turns entertaining each other on community night programs. Square dancing, mass game parties, singing games, dramatics, stories around a bonfire, boxing, circuses and concerts, were attended by whole neighborhoods during the summer. More than 500 adults and children entertained on community night programs. An estimated total of 20,000 attended.

Seattle's Backyard Playground Contest.

Seattle, Washington, held its third annual Backyard Playground Contest, April 6th to May 6th. The Council of Pre-School Associations conducted the contest, in which all parents were urged to join, under the following classifications:

1. School districts having the largest number of backyard playgrounds.
2. Most artistic backyard playground consisting of either ready-made equipment or home-made. The arrangement of the grounds must be artistic.
3. Best home-made backyard playground. All equipment must be home-made.
4. Child under sixteen years of age building a swing, sandbox or other equipment for younger brother or sister, may also be entered in the contest.

The committee had as its slogan, "Let us put Seattle on the map as a city having the largest number of backyard playgrounds in proportion to its size." The rules required that a backyard should contain one or more play facilities. A fenced-in yard with no equipment was not eligible to compete for the trophy. Judging was based upon the type, design and cost of construction, as well as its safety, originality and practicability.

Each contestant was asked to submit his name, address and telephone number, the class division in which he wished to enter his backyard, and the school district to which he belonged.

Los Angeles Accepts Gift.—The Playground and Recreation Department of Los Angeles, California, has accepted formally the home of Miss Aline Barnsdall in Hollywood. The property includes the house constructed by Miss Barnsdall at a cost of $125,000 and property worth approximately $76,000. The new addition to the city's recreation system will be used as a recreation center primarily for employed girls and women. The house will be enlarged to include a gymnasium and a swimming pool costing $40,000. A children's theatre for the production of outdoor plays and musical programs and a wading pool will be built adjoining the house at a cost of $16,000. The playhouse will be of futuristic design, circular in shape, and brilliantly colored with every hue of the rainbow. It will have a seating capacity of 400 children.

A Course in Marionettes.—A short course in the making and operating of marionettes was conducted by the Division of Recreation, Department of Public Welfare, Louisville, Kentucky, May 1st to 15th. Instruction was given by Miss Frances E. Fox of the Recreation Department of Houston, Texas, in modeling, casting, stringing and operating both simple marionettes suitable for smaller children's groups and the more difficult type for older children and adults. A registration fee of $2.00 was charged for instruction. This included two tickets for the final production given at the end of the course by a selected group.

A Folk Dancing Festival in Los Angeles.—On March 28th the Department of Playgrounds and Recreation of Los Angeles held a Folk Dancing Festival presided over by the spirit of Liberty. Twenty-two nations were represented and many of the dances were given by children who actually traced their nationality back to the country from which the folk dances originated. Over 300 children took part and more than 2,000 people watched the dancing.

HOW MUCH DO YOU CARE about Schools and Children?

The Progressive Education Association translates your interest into service for your child, for your school, for your community.

No matter what helpful service other organizations render, it is the ONE which asks and answers these questions:

What IS real education?

How can it be secured for the children of today and tomorrow?

PROGRESSIVE EDUCATION, the monthly organ of the Association, interprets this movement in education to the public.

You DO care about schools and children—can you afford to keep out of the current of this movement?

Membership in the Progressive Education Association, with its many personal services, and an annual subscription to PROGRESSIVE EDUCATION, means only $3.00 in money . . . but a great deal in personal satisfaction both to you and to us. Will you come along? Note the SPECIAL OFFER in the attached coupon.

EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CHIEF OF THE CHILDREN'S BUREAU. United States Department of Labor. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. $0.05.

A report of Grace Abbott, Chief of the Children's Bureau for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930, tells of the work of the recreation specialists attached to the Social Service Department of the Bureau. The greater part of the time of this worker has been devoted to the problem of recreation among rural children. Demonstrations have been given to 4-H Clubs and other rural groups in 12 states and at the National 4-H Club Encampment in the District of Columbia. Institutes were held for 69 groups of club leaders and in all about 13,000 people were assisted in planning and carrying out programs of group play which could be taken back to their own communities. A report on rural recreation in West Virginia has been completed and will be published in 1931.

MUSIC AND THE CHILD. Child Study Association of America, 221 West 57th Street, New York City. $5.00.

The best of progressive theory and practical material in the form of lists of material, such as books, piano rolls and phonograph records, have been combined in this book, designed to help parents and teachers bring music as a creative experience into children's lives. The book is divided into two parts. The first section includes a foreword by Peter W. Dykema followed by discussions of various phases of music education. The second section is made up of a collection of lists compiled and edited by the Music Committee of the Child Study Association of America, including books for singing, rhythmic response and piano playing, phonograph records, piano rolls and books. Each list has been developed to cover the needs of children from early childhood to maturity.

8 BOYS' PLAYS FOR CAMPS AND CLUBS. Albert M. Brown, 918 Avenue P, Brooklyn, New York. $5.00.

Club leaders and camp directors will hail this book with delight. Mr. Brown knows boys and he knows that boys are fond of acting—when they approve of the play. In preparing these short plays he has struck the type of humor that suits boys to the ground. The alert imagination that turns a commonplace event into a thriller, the joke on the other fellow that every boy loves, the repartee of boyhood—the "wise cracks"—all are turned to good use in this book which is written with a practical knowledge of camp and club facilities and a sympathetic understanding of directors' problems.

PRIMARY INDUSTRIAL ARTS. Della F. Wilson, B.S. The Manual Arts Press, Peoria, Illinois. $2.00.

This book has been prepared especially for the use of teachers in primary grades, the aim being to treat each of the various art and industrial art subjects now taught in the schools in such a manner that the teacher inexperienced in manipulative processes may have suggestions for assisting her pupils in construction work and related study. Mounting and pasting, sandtables and sandtable projects, stick-printing, simple folders and booklets, paper construction, clay modeling, pottery, basketry, textile weaving, and thin wood toys are among the subjects discussed.

TAP, CAPER AND CLOG. Helen Frost. A. S. Barnes and Company, New York. $2.00.

Miss Frost, who is the author of a number of books on clog dancing, takes us a step further in this new volume and presents fifteen additional dances with directions and music.

INTRAMURAL POINT SYSTEMS FOR GIRLS' ATHLETICS. Women's Division, National Amateur Athletic Federation, 370 Seventh Avenue, New York.

Through its Committee on Point Systems, the Women's Division has issued in mimeographed form the results of two studies. One is a study of intramural point systems in 110 high schools. The second report presents information on a study of point systems in the high schools of five states—Alabama, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, and Oregon. Copies of these two studies may be secured from the Women's Division at 15 cents each or 25 cents for both.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.—A Course of Study for kindergarten and Grades 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. Long Beach City Schools, Long Beach, California.

One of the most interesting courses of study thus far presented by a physical education department has been incorporated in this volume prepared by officials of the Long Beach Public Schools. The course provides a progressive developmental course in physical education activities based on the interests and growth needs of children at the various age levels. The activities are classified according to grades—whether they are hunting games, rhythms, relays, picture games, stunts or other types of activities—and under each game the following information is given; content and method including formation and objectives, suggestions for playing, rules and outcomes.
